Founding Teacher Leaders
Bay Area

Are you a Montessori leader with an entrepreneurial drive and a thirst for social justice? Ready to start your own school and make a difference in the world?

We are currently looking for teacher leaders who are ready to become leaders of their own schools! And who want to honor their craft of teaching by opening and leading a school! Make your way to the California Bay!

Who are we?

Wildflower Schools is a national network of micro-schools that aim to serve racially and socioeconomically diverse communities with exceptional Montessori education.

We are working to create beautiful, child-centered learning environments that support children, teachers, and families from diverse backgrounds as they follow life's unfolding journey. The model combines time-tested, research-supported Montessori methods in one-room, neighborhood-nested shop fronts with promising new ideas in parent engagement, intentional student diversity, teacher-leader empowerment, and data-driven instruction. Wildflower aspires to give all children and families the opportunity to choose high quality, nurturing learning environments for their children.

Have you been working with children for a while? Helping young children to become independent beings who know how to work collaboratively and take ownership of their environment? Have you been modeling for them all the important life lessons through growth and connectedness? Why not model these same elements in your life? Why not show the world and your community how you can honor your own vision and craft of teaching by creating your own school?

We are here to offer teachers the tools, support, and network that teachers with an entrepreneurial spirit need to make their dreams a reality. Come, join us, create, innovate and thrive!

Next steps
Contact Koren Clark at Koren.Clark@wildflowerschools.org and express your interest on our website under "connect with us" at https://wildflowerschools.org/.

We look forward to hearing from you!